

Broadcast Commercials Miami

Diamond View Studios is a full service production company in Tampa, specializing in video production, broadcast commercials, and motion graphics. Within our 2,800 square-foot facility, we have ten HD editing suites, featuring Final Cut Pro and Adobe CS6, an audio booth, in-house production studio, and an innovative graphics department.

Diamond View Studios is a professional video production company specializing in creative content. With offices located in Tampa, Orlando and Miami, Diamond View Studios is Florida's premier video production company. Sneak a peak at our most recently featured work on the home page or view a library of our previous work in our portfolio section. Thank you for your interest in video production by Diamond View Studios, we hope to partner with you soon.

Universal Athletic Testing is an online system that athletes can use to keep track of their progress and challenge their abilities. The video production took place over one day in Tampa at various locations and included a director of photography, two camera operators, and a production assistant. The post-production process included innovative graphics, high-level motion effects, sound design and voice over casting which all came together intentionally to create a motivational tone.

In this high-energy and versatile edit, Diamond View Studios was able to debut the Sony NEX-FS700, a hot-on-the-market camera featuring a native 4K resolution sensor. What sets this Tampa video production apart from earlier video productions, is the camera's ability to shoot up to 960 fps, also known as, super slo-mo. One of the few video production companies in Tampa to possess the FS700 gives them the ability to feature more cinematic and dynamic videos than those of the competition.

Video is the most effective way to deliver an attention-grabbing message about what you have to offer. It is estimated that customers who watch videos of products or services are 85% more likely to make a purchase. In fact, quality video content on your website has proven ability to create confidence in consumers which is a leading factor in making a purchase. Don't just imagine all the ways video could help your business, take a look at how our videos have already helped our customers.

Anthony, A Saint Leo University graduate and former collegiate baseball player serves as the Account Executive. He is the key link between the clients and the company. Anthony's commitment in providing top notch service, while maintaining strong long-term relationships creates the perfect fit to manage the sales and customer service divisions.

Here at Diamond View Studios, we strive to always remain one step ahead of the game when it comes to our gear. In the video production industry, there are always new trends on the rise. Therefore, we are dedicated to performing the research it takes to always feature cutting edge technology to ensure the quality of our videos exceeds the expectations of our clients.

By attending industry events like the 2013 NAB show and being active members in groups like the National Association of Broadcasters, we are not only able to stay on top of the trends happening in the US, but we are able to examine the future of video production by checking out what's going on internationally.

Although we believe it doesn't take expensive equipment to tell a powerful story through video, we know that the audience for your business or organization will judge the quality of your services based on the quality of your video. And to ensure top-notch quality, you have to have top-notch gear. That is why we use top of the line camera equipment like the SONY FS-700, the Blackmagic Cinema Camera, CANON 5D Mark III, and the GoPro HERO3.

The post-production process included innovative graphics, high-level motion effects, sound design and voice over casting which all came together intentionally to create a motivational tone.

One of the few video production companies in Tampa to possess the FS700 gives them the ability to feature more cinematic and dynamic videos than those of the competition.

Universal Athletic Testing is an online system that athletes can use to keep track of their progress and challenge their abilities.

For more information please visit our website
<http://www.diamondviewstudios.com>